I don't believe Hurricane Harvey is God's punishment for Houston electing a lesbian mayor. But that is more credible than "climate change."

Now is the time to say it as loudly as possible: Harvey is what climate change looks like. politi.co/2vzna4U

Together,
these readings look like this.

My Visualisation of Readings - a stained-glass window, my 'constructed perspective' on the issue which has led to my research question.

Represented by positive outlook for the future of the climate,

these readings look like this.

The darker, the less optimistic about the future they are.

My new knowledge
question.

What is the story of the Modern Australian climate and its relationship with environmental politics?
